

Advice for hanging paintings or photos from a molding

- For hanging artwork from molding attach the art to the line near the upper corners, if too far down the painting the top of painting will hang out from the wall.
- Fixtures should not themselves stick out
- Fixtures should not have any sharp edges that might cut the fishing line that we use for hanging.
- We hang with fishing line which comes in different strengths and is nearly invisible
- The fishing line can be attached either to each side or to the middle of a wire running across the top edge of the painting/photo.
- Tie multiple knots—simple knots can slip with fishing line
- If possible, measure where you want the top of the painting and determine the amount of line needed. Tie it to painting before trying to hang it—its hard to tie when you are on a ladder holding the painting—
